

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is indeed a matter of great pleasure for me to take this occasion to thank all those individuals who have directly or indirectly guide, support and assist me during the course of my doctoral research. I must admit that, the kind of academic, social, financial and moral support that I fortunately received from a number of personalities is quiet incommunicable in words. Perhaps this would be the worst form of my expression which is confined by words but I must attempt at my highest possible effort to express my indebtedness towards them within my very limited capacity of written communication.

First of all, I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere gratitude to my esteemed supervisor Dr. Tarak Nath Sahu of Department of Commerce, Vidyasagar University for his invaluable and tireless guidance and supervision without which the successful completion of this research would only remain a daydream for me. Dr. Sahu's contribution towards my research is not only confined to academics but he has guided me in many other dimensions of my life which ultimately added high value to my research work. Besides, my sincere gratitude must go to all other respected faculties of the Department of Commerce for their continuous support and guidance to enrich this piece of research.

My sincere gratitude goes to Dr. Sudin Bag, Assistant Professor and Dr. Debasish Biswas, Assistant Professor and Teacher-in Charge, Department of Business Administration, Vidyasagar University for their invaluable cooperation in my research work.

I would like to convey my hearty thanks to Dr. Pinaki Das of Department of Economics, Vidyasagar University for his invaluable academic support during the course of my research work.

I would be ever grateful to Dr. Pulak Mishra of IIT Kharagpur for providing me with continuous and tireless academic support for carrying out this research work.

Besides, I would like to convey my heartfelt regards to Prof. Debdas Ganguly, Campus Head, EIILM, Kolkata and Prof. Kartick Chandra Paul, Professor and Head, School of Economic and Commerce, Adamas University for their continuous encouragement and other forms of moral support which contribute immensely towards the successful completion of this research work.

At the same time, my sincere thanks must go to my elderly brother Mr. Shib Sankar Jana and my beloved friends Mr. Surajit Maji and Dr. Apu Manna for their effortless moral support throughout the period of this research work.

My heartfelt regards must go to my parents Mrityunjoy Pandey and Basanti Pandey for their uncountable sacrifices and compromises for my academic success. It is needless to say that without their unconditional support it could not have been possible for me to carry out my education from its basic to the present level. Besides, I must convey my sincere gratitude to my paternal uncle Bijay Krishna Pandey and my cousin Late Rajesh Kumar Pandey for their unforgettable moral support, life philosophies and motivation which kept me energetic and confident throughout the period of my study.

My special thanks must go to my beloved brother Ram Dayal and my dear wife Neha for their countless sacrifices along with endless moral encouragement that they provided me during the course of my research work. I must thank my newly born child Niraj Nayan for his uncountable sacrifices that he even might not be aware of.

Last but not the least, I would like to thank all my well wishers and people who have directly or indirectly assisted me to carry out this research investigation.

Krishna Dayal Pandey